

The essay was ordered at EssayShark.com.

Visit this page for more information about this service!

YourFirstName YourLastName

Instructor's Name

Course Title

11 April 2016

Should Children Start Writing Essays At Schools?

NAME SURNAME

PROFESSOR

CLASS

9 April 2016

Should Children Start Writing Essays at Schools?

Not all children have literary talent, but all should write the essay at school. In order to write bright and interesting essays, it is necessary to help children to learn how to express the thoughts independently.

In the course of the writing of the essay, the teacher can estimate as far as the student knows the native speech, what he thinks and how he sees the world. It is a good opportunity for parents to know their children better. "...it can really help inform the parent about where their child is at. You get to learn more about their life in high school, as well as where they're at academically and ways that you can help them" ("Writing Essays - School A To Z").

The later you begin to write– the less chances you have to do it clearly.

The later you start – the less chances to learn how to write the text. The essay is a small creative project; it is similar to shooting or painting. There are all parts of the creative process: it is necessary to think about the general structure of the work, to be able to put in your work a certain context. The author should show the knowledge about a subject, understanding of views of other people and write his own opinion. Ability to inform of the main subject your readers is called 'send a message'. The message is a letter to the reader; it should be accurate, clear and individual. The majority of us can easily express the opinion in words. To make the same in writing is the art, which needs to study from the early age. The later you will begin the less chances to get writing skills.

Act – quickly, write – clearly.

Any conflict situation can be avoided if opponents understand the logic of actions and the principles of each other. In order to be understandable, it is necessary to explain the thoughts clearly. In is often happened that there is no time for an explanation: it is necessary to work quickly, to speak and write clearly and briefly. It is easy to do if you have well adjusted neural networkю It allows to process information quickly, to analyze it and to develop "feedback" – to give the answer. Practicing writing skills, students adjust the neural networks. They develop the individual answer to the question. Having adjusted a network, our brain begins to use it subconsciously, saving time and make our life easier in situations when it is required to make quick analyzes.

Develop a brain, but not fingers.

There is a saying "you are judged by appearances at first but by your mind later on". The competent and coherent writing is as our appearance. Especially in our modern world where the majority of us write SMS, messages in social networks every minute. Thus, the letter becomes our appearance at virtual meetings. If you are able to express accurately thoughts in writing, then you will be able to do it in conversation.

Famous Lido Anthony (Lee Iacocca) has come to a conclusion that if every day you write about your day and thoughts, then a week you will be able to put thoughts into words on paper. Besides, you will be able to develop your special style of writing.

I am sure, if the teacher gives the task to write the essay on the interesting topic, we will have more professionals in the sphere of literature, and also other branches.

Reference

"Writing Essays - School A To Z". Schoolatoz.nsw.edu.au. N.p., 2013. Web. 9 Apr. 2016.

This sample was written for OmniPapers.com